

A photograph of a group of people on horseback, possibly in a traditional or military context, moving across a dusty field. The riders are wearing various types of clothing, some appearing to be traditional or military uniforms. The background shows a line of trees and distant mountains under a clear sky. The overall scene is dynamic and dusty, with a sense of movement.

Kapisa Provincial Government representatives and members from the Bagram Provincial Reconstruction Team recently opened a school and health clinic in Mahmood Raqi District, Kapisa.

U.S. Air Force Capt. Jordan Berry, International Security Assistance Force's Bagram PRT Kapisa Civil Affairs team leader, and Hatan, Afghan Ministry of Education representative, cut the ribbon on the eight-room, $122,000 school.

"You can send your children to school now," said Hatan. "Please send your children here for an education."

The Zalmay Shahid Secondary School, which took more than 10 months to build, will house approximately 240 boys, ages 10 - 15.

The ISAF PRT builds clinics and schools where there are existing programs that don't have adequate facilities.

Construction on the clinic began Feb. 3, 2007, and although

ANA Attends Counter IED Awareness Course

Story and Photos by:
Italian Capt. Frederico Collina
Regional Command West
Chief Public Affairs

Since October 2001, Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs, or roadside bombs) have been responsible for most deaths in Afghanistan. IEDs are hidden behind signs and guardrails, under roadside debris, or inside animal carcasses, and encounters with these bombs began to increase and be lethal in the last years. The counter IED technologies being evaluated so far include electronic jammers, radars, X-ray equipment, robotic explosive ordnance disposal equipment, physical security equipment and armor for vehicles who recognized the need to train soldiers on the dangers of IEDs. Since January 2008 they have trained more than 80 ANA soldiers on how to distinguish roadside bombs from innocuous trash, how to tell whether a driver is just in hurry or trying to deliver a car
